To the Reader.

Vch as by their place and calling (but especially Preachers) as haue occasion to speake publicly before the ignorant people, are to be admonished, that they neuer affect any strange inkhorne tearmes, but labour to speake so as is commonly receiued, and so as the most ignorant may wel vnderstand them: neither seeking to be ouer fine or curious, nor yet liuing ouer-carelesse, vsing their speech as most men doe, and ordering their wits as the fewest haue done. Some men seeke so far for outlandish English, that they forget altogether their mothers language, so that if some of their mothers were aliue, they were not able to tell or vnderstand what they say; & yet these fine English Clearkes will say they speake in their mother tongue; but one might well charge them for counterfaying the Kings English. Also, some farre iournied Gentlemen, at their returne home, like as they loue

To the Reader.

to goe in forraine apparrell, so they will pouder their talke with ouer-sea language.
Hee that commeth lately out of France, will talke French English, and neuer blush at the matter. Another chops in with English Italinated, and applyeth the Italian phrase to our English speaking, the which is as if an Orator, that professeth to vtter his minde in plaine Latine, would needes speake Poetrie, and farre fetched colours of strange an-tiquitie. Doeth any wise man thinke, that wit resteth in strange words, or else standeth it not in wholsome matter, & apt declaring of a mans mind? Doe we not speake, because we would haue others to vnderstand vs? or is not the tongue giuen for this ende, that one might know what another meaneth? Therefore, either we must make a difference of English, and say some is learned English, and othersome is rude English, or the one is Court talke, the other is Country speech, or else wee must of necessitie banish all affected Rhetorique, and vse altogether one manner of language. Those therefore that will auoid this folly, and acquaint themselves with the plainest and best kinde of speech, must seeke from time to time such wordes as are commonly

monly receiued, & such as properly may expresse in plaine manner, the whole conceit of their minde. And looke what words we best vnderstand, & knowe what they meane, the same should sooneſt be ſpoken, and firſt applied to the vtterance of our purpoſe. Therefore for this end, foure things would chiefly be obſerued in the choiſe of wordes. Firſt, that ſuch wordes as wee uſe, ſhould be proper vnto the tongue wherein wee ſpeake. Again, that they be plaine for all men to perceiue. Thirdly, that they bee apt and meete, moſt properly to ſet out the matter. Fourthly, that wordes tranſlated, from one ſignification to another, (called of the Grecians Tropes,) be vſed to beautifie the ſentence, as precious ſtones are ſet in a ring to commend the gold. Now ſuch are thought apt wordes, that properly agree vnto that thing, which they ſignifie, and plainely expreſſe the nature of the ſame. therefore, they that haue regard of their eſtimation and credite, doe warily ſpeake, and with choiſe, vtter wordes moſt apt for their purpoſe. In waightie cauſes, graue wordes are thought moſt needefull that the greatneſſe of the matter, may the rather appeare, in the vehemencie of their talke. So likewise of other, like order must be taken. Albeit some, not onely doe not obserue this kinde of aptnesse, but also they fall into much fondnes, by vsing wordes out of place and applying them to diuers matters without all discretion.

If thou be desirous (gentle Reader) rightly and readily to vnderstand, and to profit by the Table, and such like, then thou must learne the Alphabet, to wit, the order of the Letters as they stand, perfectly without booke, and where euery Letter standeth: as (b) neere the beginning, (n) about the midst, and (t) toward the ende. Now if the word, which thou art desirous to finde, begin with (a) then looke in the beginning of this Table, but if with (v) looke towards the end. Again, if thy word begin with (ca) looke in the beginning of the Letter (c) but if with (cu) then looke toward the end of that Letter. And so of all the rest, &c.

And further vnderstand, that al such words as are deriued and drawne from the Greeke, are noted with this letter (g.) And the french are marked thus (s) but such wordes as are deriued from the Latine and others, haue no marke atall.

Farewell.
